

Digital Narrative Part 3: Who Are Our Heroes?

For this digital narrative project, you will be working in groups of 2-3. With your group members you will explore what it means to be a hero for different age groups.

- Your group should choose to create one of the episodes for our class podcast.
- Each episode should be 8-10 minutes.
- Each group member's voice should be included in the episode.
- Episodes 2-8 require the creators to (briefly) interview/ discuss this question with people from that age group (the more perspectives, the more thoughtful and interesting your episode will be!). Episodes 2-8 also should consider the questions: What influences this age group to have these heroes? What does this type of hero reveal about this age group's values? What other beliefs about heroes does this age group have (i.e., do heroes have to have a specific identity?) Other thoughts on this topic.
- Episode 1 should cite at least 2 outside sources (can be the videos/ podcast that we listened to in class or can be another credible source) and create a works cited page.
- Episodes 2-8 should cite all of the people that they interviewed for the episode and create a works cited page (this webpage will show you what a personal interview citation should look like).
- You are welcome to invite guest speakers to your episode too (but they must fit the topic). If you include any other speakers' voices in your episode, you must have them sign the consent forms (attached to the Google Classroom Post).
- Each episode should start out by introducing your topic(s) and the creators' names. Feel free to be as creative as you want with this!!
- On the chart below, sign up for the episode that you would like to create.
- Your group can choose any recording platform that you want. However, you must be able to share the completed file with your classmates. You will upload your completed file to the shared Google folder linked here.
